

Hello

God writes the best stories, better than we could ever imagine. Adoption is such an amazing, crazy, scary, wild ride, and we hope that you find comfort in knowing that His hand is in every detail navigating your baby to the right family. So, just breathe! God already knows how this journey travels. But, we realize that selecting complete strangers to be the parents of your child is anything but normal. We see you as being a mother, making a very difficult decision for your sweet baby. Although we can not ease the emotion and stress this process puts you through, whether or not you select our family, please know that we pray for you to have clarity and strength as you walk in this space that you are in.

Our adventure in growing a family began with a lot of heartache. We experienced multiple miscarriages, it was hard to see God's plan in that mess and it was hard to understand the why in that suffering. Nevertheless, God always provides and opened up the possibility of adoption. A totally unpredictable and marvelous story began to unfold. We placed our adoption process on hold when we learned that we were expecting our first child, and this time, for real! Then, another miracle followed shortly after as our second daughter was born. We never imagined such a masterpiece would be called our story. Our mission to adopt had always been there, through all of the joys of welcoming our daughters into the world, and now we turn to you to help us grow further. We are excited to add your precious child to our family!

We both came from large families, and there is nothing better than the uncontrollable laughter and bond that comes with having brothers/sisters. We see it daily and we love how natural that tremendous joy, infectious laughter, and close bond fills each day. As you select the right family for your child, you are viewing our family as a whole, selecting us as parents, and siblings for your child to grow with.

If God places in your heart that we are the right fit, we assure you that your child will receive stability, protection, and above all, LOVE. Love that is unmeasurable, unconditional, playful, and unwavering. Love from two big (but still little) sisters, adoring grandparents, an abundance of aunts, uncles, and cousins, the love from heaven above, and of course, from two sets of parents – birth and adopted. If you place your child with us, we are forever tied together.

With Open Hearts
