

Hi there!

First of all, you are so strong for considering all options that will be best for you and your child! We can only imagine the wide range of emotions expectant parents must feel during this process. We want you to know that no matter what you decide, we support and love you and we wish you and your child all the best! You may be reading multiple profiles (which can get exhausting!) so we just wanted to say thank you for taking the time to read ours. We are truly honored.

We have been together for 7 years, married for 3. We consider family to be the most important thing in life and ours currently consists of our 2-and-a-half-year-old daughter, Cici, and pups, Bell (Corgi) and Athena (Black Lab). We've dreamed of expanding our family and after experiencing great difficulties and infertility, we knew we wanted to expand our family another way. Through the ups and downs, we've remained strong and were a rock in each other's lives.

Our home is centrally located near activities we enjoy doing, such as: swimming, going to the library, the Farmer's market, walking trails, playing at the parks with friends, and enjoying the delicious ice cream parlor. We are also very close to our support system. Our family and closest friends are only a few short miles away!

Together we love to see and experience new places, people, and cultures! We appreciate the beauty of the world around us and hope to share our love of adventure with our children. By teaching them about different cultures and different people, we hope to instill a sense of respect for others and their differences, as well as a sense of pride for who they are as a person. In this house we respect everyone for who they are, even if that changes over time. We support one another and lift each other up in easy and difficult times. We are open minded and accepting of all differences. We allow the freedom to safely explore one's environment and sense of self. We encourage the learning of new skills of interest and understand that every person is CAPABLE in their own way. All in all, we genuinely strive to be a kind, loving, and compassionate family to all those we meet in life.

We understand that the level of openness greatly depends on the comfort level of the expectant family, so we wish to consider whatever level of openness makes you feel most at ease! We hope to meet you one day, but even if we don't, just know that we love you and wish only the best for you and your child.

Sincerely,

Rissa, Devon, & Cici
