

Dear Expectant Parent(s),

We are incredibly grateful that you are taking the time to learn about us, and we hope to have the chance to learn about you. We know that adoption is a difficult decision, but we also know that you are very remarkable because you have chosen this path for yourself and your child. Adoption is a brave and loving choice; and if you choose to walk along this journey with us, we promise to love your child unconditionally and will ensure that they understand how your courage and love helped to make us a family. We respect whichever level of openness you choose. We know that open adoption is very beneficial and means that there are more people in the child's life to love and support them, so we are open to exploring this option with you.

A little bit about us....We are both Colorado natives and love the mountains and being outdoors. Bryan works in the aviation field and is a huge hockey fan. Angela is a former teacher but is now fortunate to work from home in the insurance field. Angela loves reading, especially poetry. We also enjoy traveling, learning, and exploring the world, whether it be in our own backyard or a far-off destination. We have a rambunctious, caring, and adorable dog, Rocky, who is our very best friend. We are very close with our families and talk to them frequently. Our house is the main hub where everyone gathers for holidays, birthdays, and family game nights.

We have been married for a little over 4 years and always knew that we wanted to grow our family. Unfortunately, we experienced a miscarriage early on in our marriage and have dealt with the pain of infertility since that time; however, through our trials, we have grown stronger. We decided to open our hearts and our home and became foster parents in 2021. This experience strengthened our bond with one another and gave us invaluable knowledge, which we know will help us as we navigate our journey as adoptive parents. We fostered for about a year before deciding that we wanted to give a child a permanent home through adoption, and we can't wait to start this next step on our journey!

We are very excited that our dream of being parents is coming true. Thank you for giving hope to families like ours!

With Love,

Bryan and Angela
